Success criteria:

I can...

- understand how planning, composing and reviewing contribute to quality writing
- use effective strategies to plan ideas for writing, eg making notes, drawing, using diagrams.
- reread and edit text for spelling, sentence-boundary punctuation and text structure
- compose sentences effectively using basic grammatical features and punctuation conventions

Task One: Text to Text Connection

Watch Wash Your Hands and How To Wash A Woolly Mammoth

‘Wash Your Hands’ is a fictional text that has a ‘hidden’ procedure about how and why to wash your hands.

Using the Venn Diagram, record parts of the story that are the same, and the parts that are different.

**NOTE****

Some of the similarities and differences are implicit... that means you have to think about it as the book doesn't just tell us.

For example, in one story, the character is washing hands. In the other, a woolly mammoth. However the similarity is that they are both washing for hygienic purposes.

(Venn diagram below. Double click on the venn diagram. It will open in drawing where you can add text)
